

This contemporary jewel with 3,957 sqft is tucked away on a quiet cul-de-sac lot in the heart of North Raleigh near the new Whole Foods, a YMCA, and minutes from I-540. A large two car garage includes extra space for a workshop.

A Crosswinds developer reserved this special lot for himself which is why this 1990 cedar plank home was one of the last built in the subdivision. Surprises include a fully equipped theater room on the lower level.

Soaring ceilings greet you as you enter. This is the view from the master suite on the upper level. There are 5 total bedrooms and 4 full baths including a lower level that could be an in-law suite.

The architect is unknown but appreciated. Any suggestions are welcome. The living room fireplace is one of two, the other is in the family room.

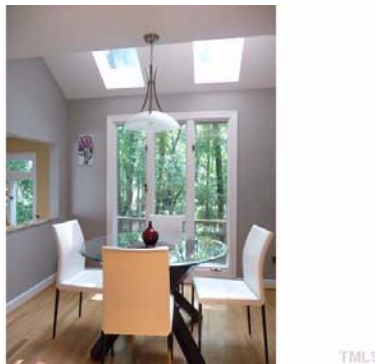

Each vista is its own reward.

The bright corner dining room is one of several attractive dining options.

Dine on the deck overlooking the backyard, one of 4 total decks.

Or dine formally or informally in the skylighted breakfast room that visually opens to the family room a half level below.

The newly remodeled kitchen is in the center of things. See the floor plan.

All new - granite counters and appliances including a gas range, oven, microwave and refrigerator.

The family room location well away from the living and dining rooms offers a get-away during formal dinner parties, and an inviting space for whole house parties.

And there is more. The fully equipped theater room on the lower level is a versatile space that could be a living/dining area as part of an in-law suite that opens onto a ground-level deck in back. See pictures below.

This picture is worth repeating. It shows the steps leading to the master bedroom suite and two other bedrooms on the upper level.

The master suite includes a 20x13 ft bedroom with a gently sloping tray ceiling and large walk-in closet.

Three of the four full baths were recently remodeled, including the master bath, shown here, with a Jacuzzi.

On the main level, the remodeled guest bath, with tile floors and surround, is also privately accessible from an adjacent bedroom.

This main level bedroom, one of 5 total, could be a guest room or office. Hardwood floors are found throughout the house.

Back to the lower level. This is the study connecting the theater room with the bedroom on the lower level.

Bookshelves line one wall of the lower level study that includes a wet bar and wine cooler.

The versatile 18x12 ft bedroom on the lower level is flex space at its best, offering options as a stand alone rec room, office or studio, or as part of a larger in-law suite.

The biggest of the 4 decks opens onto the back yard with space for croquet, volley ball or quiet contemplation. The lower level includes unfinished 388 sqft for storage and a workshop.

It is no surprise that the developer originally reserved this lot for himself.

The view from above, showing the small creek running across the back of the lot.

The new Whole Foods is less than a mile away at 8710 Six Forks Road. The Char-Grill and YMCA are even closer.

It is hard to believe that this quiet, cul-de-sac doorstep, nestled in the Crosswinds Subdivision, is in the very heart of the new north Raleigh that includes swim, tennis and health clubs, shops, offices and services.
